Reviews

Eric McKeever, Publisher, The Anthracite History Journal says:

"The book deals with the mundane daily round of activities in the Casserly household in a time of profound social change and conflict. Skillfully interwoven through all of this is the rivalries and antagonisms of the various immigrant groups brought to the coal regions to work in the mines." and "This book is a worthy addition to coal region literature." It was a good and interesting piece of literature... I really enjoyed it.

Tommy Symons, The Orange and Green Show

Really loved reading about the early days in Mahanoy City. The rivalry among the fire companies is almost lost history... I highly recommend this book!!
